

PUBLIC LIBRARY RESTRICTS STUDENTS

The Board of Trustees of the Public Library has had to close the library to students of the Public Schools of Wilmington, after 7 pm.

In a letter written to the Superintendent of Schools the Trustees said:

At the meeting of the Library Trustees held Wednesday September 25, 1963, it was decided that the students in the Wilmington Schools should not use the Public Library for study purposes, or use the reference material, after seven o'clock.

Will you please see that this notice is posted or otherwise announced so that there will be no misunderstanding? The purpose of this ruling is to ease the crowded conditions now existing.

It is felt that students should be allowed to borrow books, but that there should be no lingering in the library.

Sincerely yours,

A CHANGE FOR THE BETTER: Says Alyce Weed, and she and her assistant Betty are all smiles, in their new Beauty Shop, on the main floor at 318 Main Street. Alyce moved into her new quarters this week.

LITTLE LEAGUE BANQUET SATURDAY

Saturday at 6 pm is to be the biggest day of the year for the Little Leaguers of Wilmington.

Every boy wants to play ball, yes. Every boy wants to eat too, the goodie goodie kind of eating where the ladies have prepared the tables with so many many things.

Major and Minor Leaguers, and the Clinic Teams, about 200 boys, will be taking part, along with the Little League officials and ladies of the Auxiliary.

NORTH READING SAN TO BE RETAIRED YOUTH CENTER BY OCTOBER 15TH

The conversion of the former North Reading Sanatorium to a vocational and social rehabilitation center for retarded youths and adults is expected by October 15th.

Dr Delilah Riemer, MD is to serve as Director of the new center. Previously she has served as Chief of the Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation Services at the Veterans Hospital in Bedford, and she is presently instructor of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at Tufts School of Medicine.

The North Reading Sanatorium, which adjoins the Town of Wilmington, and includes a few acres of Wilmington land, was operated for about 60 years as a tubercular treatment institution for children.

The facility was placed under the jurisdiction of the Department of Mental Health by an act of the 1962 Legislature.

The purpose of the new Center will be to rehabilitate the candidates vocationally and socially so that as many as possible will be prepared for living in the community as contributing members of society. Those who may not be prepared vocationally, it is hoped, will at least achieve a

GROUND BREAKING FOR WOBURN ST SCHOOL

Ground breaking ceremonies on Tuesday morning, at 10 am signified the starting of a new school for Wilmington - the Woburn Street School, so called.

A contract was signed last week by the Permanent Building Committee of Wilmington, and Sewel & Smith Construction Co Inc, of Framingham Mass.

The contract, for a total of $518,044.71, calls for the completion of the school by August 31 1964.

Everything except the desks and such equipment is included in the contract price, Chairman Robert Michelson of the PBC has stated. It is a 'one contract' situation, in which the General Contractor is responsible for everything in the building, including the sewerage, leaching lines, grading, seeding and planting.

The building is so designed that four more rooms may be added, without having to install more utilities, Michelson said.

A connection is to be installed while the building is being built so that if municipal sewers are ever constructed on Woburn Street a connection may be directly made with no extra trouble.

The building will have terrazzo floors in all corridors, stairways, kitchens and toilets.

Not included in the contract price of $518,044.71 are the Engineering fees, the Architect's fees the salary of the Clerk of the GROUND BREAKING CEREMONIES FOR NEW SCHOOL: Bob Barry, of the Permanent Building Committee welds the shovel as ground is broken for the new $600,000 school on Woburn Street.

Others in the group (l to r) include Dick Sewell, of Sewell and Smith, General Contractors, Superintendent of Schools Harold Shea, TM Gerald Bouchard and John Guarino, Architect.

Works, the Contingency fee, and the cost of the school furnishing. The total appropriation for the school is about $605,000.

There were 93 sub-bidders, and 9 firms vying for the General Contract, Mr Michelson said. He considers the price as very good. Sewell & Smith are now constructing a school in Ipswich, and the firm was the General Contractor for the new Tewksbury High School.

TOWN EMPLOYEES ASSOCIATION TO MEET

The newly formed Wilmington Town Employees Association is to have a regular meeting, next Monday at 8 pm in the American Legion Hall.

President Arthur B Harper and Atty Timothy Kane are to have speakers from the State House who will speak on Civil Service. There will be a speaker from the Blue Cross, to speak on 'Improved Blue Cross Insurance'.

NEWEST FIRM OFFERS ARBOR HOMES

OFFICERS OF FENTON & FENTON, the new firm which has just located at 510 Main Street. In the foreground is President Jack Fenton of Lynn, and behind him is the other member of the firm, Paul V Fenton of Salem. They have been associated with Arbor Homes since its beginning in New England.

Wilmington's newest firm, which moved in the past week, is offering to build homes, on privately owned lots of land, using pre-cut lumber.

Fenton & Fenton, of 510 Main Street, chose Wilmington for its central location, for their head office.

They are the agents for Arbor Homes, not only in Wilmington, but in towns contiguous to Wilmington. The firm has been in existence now for four years, with an office on the North Shore.

Jack J Fenton, president of the firm, who lives at 12 Belmont Ave in Lynn, is enthusiastic about the pre-cut home advantages of the Arbor Homes. He has been with the company since its beginning.

'Pre-cut lumber saves in building expenses for the man who plans to build on his own land' Fenton told the Town Crier. 'We have already built one such home in Wilmington. It surpasses the local building laws, and we are certain that many more such homes will be built here.'

THE CONSERVATION COMMISSION

Wilmington was rendered a distinct service last Thursday when Mr Gullion of the State Department of Natural Resources spoke to an assembly of town officials concerning Conservation.

Perhaps parts of the program were known to some of those present - but parts of it were not, and if advantage can be taken of what was learned the town will benefit.

In one sense Wilmington has taken steps in conservation now for the past 10 years - the properties taken under the Tax Title Programs.

It is only a small part of the entire program as laid out by Mr Gullion, but Wilmington can point with pride to the 36 acres of land that it cleared, in 1952, in South Wilmington, and to the tax title maps that were prepared in 1955.

Wilmington, at least, is a little ahead of some communities in this respect.

CONNIE'S SECRET WEAPON

Connie O'Doherty is a lovable character who was once the coach of the Wilmington High Football Team. He has many friends in this town.

In the two weeks preceding the annual game between Wilmington and Burlington Connie let it be known (He is now the Burlington coach) that he was preparing "secret plays".

Of course this is par for any football or other team, the hoopla and noise that goes with the sport - but we think we have discovered Connie's Secret Weapon.

It's the Burlington High School Field. So Help Us!

The Center of the Field is about a foot, and perhaps 18 inches higher than the two ends - or the two sides!

We never saw another field like it.

CONSERVATION PROGRAM POSSIBLE FOR WILMINGTON

Selectman Rene LaRivee, who championed the cause of Conservation in his election campaign, was appointed Monday night to the task of getting together the Wilmington Planning Board, and the Wilmington Board of Selectmen, in order that the two boards may discuss the future of Conservation in Wilmington.

The two boards, with members of the Finance Committee, and a few other interested persons heard last Thursday, a talk by Bruce Gullion, of the State Department of Natural Resources.

Excluding the towns and cities that are in the Metropolitan District Commission, there are only about 100 towns in Massachusetts which do not have a Conservation Commission, in some form, Mr. Gullion said.

A Conservation Commission or Committee, working in any town, can choose areas which are in need of preservation, for some reason or other, and through the town officials and the Department of Natural Resources, 50% of the cost can be paid through state funds, up to $15,000 a year, or 1/20th of 1% of the assessed valuation of the town or city.

The Commission is appointed by Selectmen or the Mayor, and consists of three, five or seven members, appointed for three year terms.

The commission is charged with maintaining an index of all open lands (Uplands and wetlands) and with making recommendations to the municipality as to their proper use and management.

It can act as the coordinating agency of the community on conservation matters.

It may conduct researches on related problems and prepare informational and educational materials for the communities benefit.

It may accept gifts of lands, funds or buildings on behalf of the town and manage donated or purchased properties in accord with the provisions of the act establishing the commission.

It may also acquire for conservation purposes, easements of other lesser interests in land.

Mr Gullion told his audience that the Conservation Act started in Massachusetts when a town (not specified) began to be concerned over its water development, and proposed the Conservation Act. The state began the program in the same year. By 1958 there were 30 towns, by 1959 there were 75 and at present there are over 180 towns with Conservation Commissions.

Gullion cited Concord as a town which had made much use of a Conservation Commission, and said that properly used it would implement the preservation of natural features.

The approach he insisted, should be realistic, and not emotional. Wet lands are generally best preserved as wet lands, and the destruction of them can hurt an area when there is excessive rain fall.

Gullion also cited the work of other agencies, such as the University of Massachusetts, the Soil Conservation, the Farm Bureau, the Massachusetts Department of Commerce, and the Water Resources Commission, all of whom have programs with which the Conservation Commission can work.

Much of his talk was illustrated with the problems of the Neponset River Valley, where he is now actively engaged on a project.

It takes 19 million yards of gravel, he told his listeners, to fill 300 acres, as a comment on the grave damages caused by a lack of planning.

WILLIAM S ROONEY DEAD AT 87

William S Rooney died at his home at 399 Chestnut Street, on Sept. 27th at the age of 87. He had been a resident of Wilmington for over 40 years, and died after a brief illness.

He is survived by his wife Lulu L (Hall) Rooney, and seven children, Avis R Cullen of Hanover, Florence Bertwell, Edward C and Jerome Rooney of Wilmington, and Walter Rooney and Lillian G Dover of Woburn, also by nineteen grand children and nine great grand children.

Burial was from the McMahon Funeral Home on September 30th followed by a High Mass of Requiem at St Thomas Church at 9 am celebrated by the Rev. Francis W. Mackin, who also read the committal prayers at the graveside. Burial was in the family lot in the Wildwood Cemetery.

The pall bearers were Edward Cullen, Peter Cullen, Charles Rooney, William Rooney, Walter Rooney and Robert Bertwell.

BALLARDVALE STREET CHAP 90 WORK TO BE EXTENDED

A conference with the Middlesex County Commissioners, last week forced the Board of Selectmen to name the streets that they might do for the 1964 Chapter 90 Street construction program.

In the discussion it was made clear that it was for the purpose of discussion only, with a final decision to be made later - and that the Selectmen were not going back on promises made to residents of both the Lowell Street area and the Burlington Ave area to keep those residents informed.

It was voted on motion of John Brooks to extend the Chapter 90 work on Ballardvale Street to the practical end of where work can be done in Wilmington, without involving land in Essex County. The new delineation line was chosen to be the end of Parcel 10, owned by Mrs Amy Whitten. Before the line proposed would have been at the Whitten driveway, several hundred feet to the south.

Beyond the Whitten boundary the work will be done on a 'local' (no Chapter 90 funds) basis, the Selectmen decided.

Also scheduled for 1964, for the purpose of the discussion with the Middlesex County Commissioners was Lowell Street from Lucci's to West Street, and Burlington Avenue from the Burlington line to Boutwell Street.

LETTER

Dear Mr. Neilson:

This letter is in reference to Mr. Dunham's charge that the recent decision of the Supreme Court regarding Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer in public schools is illegal.

Mr. Dunham loses his case on two 'facts'. First, he states it violates the First Amendment. If there is a violation involved Mr. Dunham does not enlighten us as to what it is, so his 'facts' would appear to be merely unsubstantiated opinion. Secondly, Mr. Dunham states that the Supreme Court has no jurisdiction in this matter since the case involves a citizen and his States and is therefore a problem to be resolved only in a State Court Article III Section II Clause I of the Constitution States: 'The Judicial power shall extend to all cases arising under this Constitution -

Because the case under discussion was brought before the Federal Courts as an alleged violation by a State of the First Amendment which is made applicable to the States by the Fourteenth Amendment the Supreme Court most certainly did have right of jurisdiction Mr. Dunham's argument that a decision of the Supreme Court is not law since only a legislature can enact a law is a distortion. In this case the Court decided that a particular law of a State was repugnant to the Constitution and therefore void. The Supreme Court in rendering this decision is not making a law but rather telling us what an existing law means, and the Court in this case finds that the Constitution will not allow the reading of the Bible and recitation of the Lord's Prayer in public schools.

Finally, Mr. Dunham maintains that we have an obligation to obey the laws of Massachusetts even though the Supreme Court has found similar laws unconstitutional. Article VI of the Constitution says, 'This Constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof: Shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding.'

Sincerely,
Peter Melchione

OPEN LETTER TO WILMINGTON BOYS

The summer season is over and you probably are searching for that position which offers the most to you and your future. Before deciding on something which may not be just what you want, why not find out about the advantages which the Navy programs have for the High School graduate?

The years spent in school have earned for you special consideration for the Navy's trade and school programs which non-graduates do not enjoy. The High School Training Program includes fifty-four separate schools, such as: Electronics Technician, Electrician's Mate, Radioman, Storekeeper, Engineman, Pipefitter, Metalsmith, Molder, Machinist's Mate, Patternmaker, Utilities Man to name but a few. These and most of the others include training in the skills and techniques required in the various civilian trades and skills. These Navy programs cannot help but have many advantages for you and your future regardless of whether you are considering a full Navy career or only a three or four year enlistment during which you can receive training for use in civilian life.

As your Navy Recruiter in the Post Office Building, Lowell, it is part of my job to inform the public about Navy programs just as much as to accept applications. I have been trained and am fully qualified to explain the Navy programs and their definite value to you. I would be pleased to discuss these matters with you or with your parents in this office or at your home. Please do not hesitate to call or write, or better yet, to drop in for a chat. This will not obligate you in any way. After an interview, I am sure that you will be satisfied knowing just what opportunities are available to you in Navy. Hoping to hear from you

New England Electric have responded to requests for their Social Security numbers, others have been less enthusiastic. One commercial bank has reported a 30% return on a mailing sent in June to 80,000 depositors. Most banks however have had better luck and on the whole, the new law has been well kept. The Internal Revenue Service originally printed 100,000,000 copies of Form 3435 to help stock-holders and others with income-producing holdings. The forms have been most effective. Some firms and banks tried printing a box on check-cancelling machines punched holes through the information.

If you haven't submitted your number to the firms asking for it, you're encouraged to do so. It's purpose is simply to make the Internal Revenue Office's job more efficient and will result in fair treatment for all concerned.

WILMINGTON 12 BURLINGTON 6

Southpaw Billy Ritchy broke the ice, Saturday, when in the eighth play against Burlington on Burlington's field, he faded back and threw a 65 yard pass to Lynn Billings, to score the first of two touchdowns for the Wilmington eleven.

It was the first game in three years in which the Burlington Red Devils seemed to have a will to win.

The Wilmington team scored their 14th straight win, and 19th game without a loss, becoming the leading team in the state, in wins, and tying the all time record of Boston English.

The Red Devils, under Coach Connie O'Doherty, suffered their 22nd consecutive loss.

The Red Devil line smothered the attempted conversion by Joe Bevilacqua.

The Red Devils, fighting as they had never fought before, marched 95 yards in the second quarter, to even things up. Howie Strachan of Burlington had a 55 yard jaunt in the march, and it was capped by Burlington's QB Jack Hughes who dove over the two yard line for the touchdown, but the Wildcats held firm in a desperate attempt to make the conversion by Burlington.

Wilmington then turned around and drove for 55 yards in the second quarter, whiffbacks Pat Lippello and Jimmy Newhouse grinding out the yardage. At the two yard line Newhouse drove through tackle for the inking touchdown of the day. His try for the extrapoint was thrown back by the Red Devil line.

The second half of the game saw no scoring, but plenty of action, as Burlington ground out a bruising ground game. Twice in the final period the Red Devils ground down to scoring territory, once to the eight yard line, and the other time to the six, but they could not pass the Wilmington defense for the crucial touchdown.

The last of the game was marked by penalties and fumbles.

Burlington rolled up 225 yards on the ground, compared to Wilmington's 150, but Wilmington had the better of the air game, 129 to 22 yards, thanks to Ritchie.

BOARD OF APPEALS DECISIONS

In seven decisions handed down Tuesday night, the Board of Appeals voted to deny two appeals and to allow five.

Denied was an appeal by James and Mary Barbas, 192 Wildwood St. to allow for an additional lot of land in front of a home at that address.

The home is back 177 feet from the street, and the appellants asked to have a lot of land set aside, 150 feet deep, and leaving 32.99 feet frontage for the house in back.

The Board found the proposal to be contrary to the intent of the law, and also found that no hardship was involved. The case was heard on August 13th.

The second denial was to Edmund Sparks of 7 Canal Street, Mr Sparks sought to divide a one half acre lot between Canal Street and Grand St so as to create two additional lots on Grand St. The case was heard on August 20th.

The board found that the proposed lots would not have the required frontage or depth, and voted against the appeal, saying that no hardship was involved.

The board voted to allow the Hayden Brothers of the Hayden Mica Company to take excess loam from that property, to use at their own homes in Reading and Wakefield, in a case heard on August 20th.

The brothers told the board that the loam was excess, that they were not selling it, but merely using it on their own property. The Jackson Brothers Inc of Wilmington, were granted a five foot variance on the sideyard requirements of homes they are building on Moore and Manning Sts.

In a case heard on Sept. 3rd the Jackson Brothers told the board that they wanted to have the houses they were building five feet closer to the lot line on one side, so as to allow additional room on the other side of the lot for possible future expansion - garage etc. The board found in favor of the appeal.

Two cases by Manuel R Amaro of 25 Chalk Street Cambridge met the approval of the board.

Mr. Amaro appeared on August 13th, in his first case, to ask that four lots of land on Cleveland Ave be combined into two lots having more than required area and depth but insufficient frontage - 106 feet instead of 125 feet.

His appeal was granted. In his second case, on the same night, he asked that 21 lots of land on Olmstead Avenue and Newland Avenue be combined into two lots, and asked for a variance on depth and area. It was granted.

The final case on which the board handed down a ruling last Tuesday was that of Gaetano and Giacomina Olivieri of 14 Marjorie Road.

Mr and Mrs Olivieri had 8 lots of land which they wanted to combine into two lots, having less than the required area or depth, with a 90 foot depth instead of 100 feet.

One abutor appeared to object because of drainage problems. The case was heard on Sept. 3rd. The board granted the appeal.
